MS in Nursing Graduate Program

Master of Science in Nursing (MS)

Which specialization is right for you?

MS | NURSING

A "Master of Science in Nursing" is an advanced-level postgraduate degree for registered nurses and is considered an entry-level degree for nurse educators and managers. This degree also may prepare a nurse to seek a career as a nurse administrator, health policy expert, or clinical nurse leader.

The main point in this curriculum is the nursing process with strong components of clinical medical knowledge complemented by behavioral science concepts. Courses are interdependent and have been structured to provide clinical depth in all aspects of the degree program.

A graduate of the program will understand the rationale for care and knowledgeably deliver this care to an increasingly complex and diverse population in multiple environments at the point of care, across the lifespan with particular emphasis on health promotion and risk reduction services.

The thesis

A thesis on a particular topic of your choice (with a Supervisor's approval) will be completed by each student in the last semester. There is considerable scope in the choice of subject areas by the student and the research method employed. Each student is allocated a supervisor who guides them through the thesis. The thesis aims to assimilate the theoretical and practical elements of the academic program of study.

Duration of program: A Semester runs for a period of three months. Our "Master's Degree" programs are completed within the period of four semesters (one year). We allow extension in the period of study, in case your courses could not be completed within the stipulated time frame. No additional fee, no extra charge for extension in the period of study.

How to apply

Prospective student must complete the Admission Form and pay the processing fee of $45 USD or its equivalent. The processing fee is refundable if admission is denied.
